

NEWS AND VIEWS . . .

And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

From all indications the Sidewalk Sale and Flea Market held here last Friday was a big success. It would have been nice if more people had brought their goods to town to sell, but all in all it was a real good day. There were a lot of people in town and everyone seemed to have a good time.

I hope that the Retail Trade Committee will come up with something similar to this on a regular basis. It would be good for everyone concerned if some kind of special event could be staged about every three months.

I hope that the courts will throw out the redistricting bill passed by the legislature that divides Jones County into two different districts. It appears now that there is no question but what the case will be taken to the courts as soon as the Governor signs the bill.

There isn't anything wrong with the district that the west half of Jones County, including Hamlin, was put in and there probably isn't anything wrong with the district the rest of Jones County was put in, but the whole county is likely to suffer by being in two different districts. Jones County is one of the larger of the West Texas Counties and should muster some weight in legislature but not by being divided.

I can foresee a number of problems that could face us with the county divided this way. Most local problems that deal with the legislature or problems that the legislature can help solve are county-wide in scope and it is likely that things will be a little more involved in trying to deal with them.

It appears that Jones County was a victim of fallout in the effort by House Speaker Mutscher to eliminate all those who opposed him during the past session. While the problem wasn't in this area the committee evidently started where the problems were and then just patched up what was left over to make the districts come out even.

From the news stories coming out of Austin since the legislature adjourned it would appear that in the process of doing this Mutscher made a whole lot more enemies than he did friends. He started out opposing the re-election of the so called "dirty 30" who opposed him and now it looks like he will be lucky if he can come up with 30 that back him.

If it were not for the fact that we will have to live with the results of redistricting for 10 years, barring a court ordered change, it would be some consolation that the legislature just gets to make a mess of redistricting every 10 years.

Congressman Omar Burleson came out better in the Congressional redistricting than it first looked like he might. He lost some counties and gained some but all in all he came out in pretty good shape. It first looked like he would be moved over to the point where he would have to have a big part of Fort Worth in his district. It is hard to find anything common between the needs of Fort Worth and the needs of Hamlin.

I suspect that since Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes lives in Burleson's district this had something to do with his coming out as well as he did.

As far as the State Senate is concerned the legislature failed to come up with a redistricting bill and the matter will have to be handled by a special committee. While this method is used only when the legislature fails to do the job, I suspect that in the long run there would be less politics involved if all of the redistricting was done by special committees. It is hard for a legislator not to think of his own political future before he thinks about anything else.

Unless the committee that works on the Senatorial district goes off on a new tangent, it is likely that Jones County will remain in the district being served by David Ratliff of Stamford.

Huge Turnout Expected Here For Partnership Golf Tourney

The Hamlin Country Club will hold its annual Partnership Golf Tournament this weekend with 48 teams expected to take part in the event. Qualifying will take place Friday with play to start Saturday morning.

Eighteen hole matches will be played Saturday and Sunday. A spokesman for the Club said that he expects more than 48 two-man teams to want to play in the tourney but that the field will be cut to 48 because that it about all the course can handle.

A pit barbecue supper will be held Saturday evening with tickets available at the door for those not playing in the tournament. The tickets are $2.00 each.

With the recent rains and a considerable amount of work being done this year, the course is in the best shape it has been in in a long time. Bill Harbert said this week that the lake is full, the greens are in good shape, some of the fairways have been watered and the course was real pretty.

Entry fee for the tournament is $30 a team and golf equipment will be given as prizes in each flight. Qualifying scores must be turned in not later than 6 p.m. Friday.

Felony rape and burglary charges were filed Monday against Billy Joe Jeffrey, 23, of Hamlin, in connection with the Saturday assault on a 21-year-old Hamlin housewife in her home.

Jones County Judge Leon Thurman denied Jeffrey bond and the accused is in Jones County jail.

The investigating officer said the woman received minor injuries during a Saturday attack and that her 18-month-old child escaped injury. A window was broken to gain entry.

Officers said the assailant took some money from his victim's purse before fleeing in the early hours Saturday. Jeffrey was arrested later in the morning, they said.

Book, 'Memories Of McCauley,' Nears Completion

During the past twelve months, residents and former residents of the McCauley community took time out from their regular duties and became amateur writers and historians. Twenty or more people wrote articles about the town and its people, and many more gave oral reports of their part in the community's history, all of which is recorded in book form.

There are stories, anecdotes, and historical facts, all written in a way that should be interesting reading for those who have lived in the community, or to anyone else who is interested in the grass roots history of a community. The book is called "Memories of McCauley," and has been compiled by R. B. Hennington of Hamlin and Ora Stephenson Carruth of Port Arthur.

The book will be ready for distribution within the next few days. Details of its sale are listed in the classified section.

Hamburgers-The Old and The New

What's new about the great American tradition, the hamburger? Only the variations you might add to come up with a different taste treat of the old and ever popular favorite. Traditionally, the hamburger has been around a long, long time, having had its origin in a restaurant back of the waterfront in — where else — Hamburg, Germany.

The story is that in 1891, Otto Kuase, a cook in the restaurant back of the waterfront, made a sandwich which the sailors who stopped at the port liked extremely well, and, in 1894, some of these same sailors visited the port of New York and told restaurant owners about Hamburg Otto's fine sandwich, which these restaurants in turn started making for their customers. In short order, all the sailors had to do was ask for a "hamburger" to get the then popular version.

As so often happens, changes have been made in the original version, but the name and its popularity have increased over the years. The original was made like this and you might like to try it for a change. The meat patty was made of ground sausage beef fried in butter. Then an egg was lightly fried on both sides in butter. This combination was placed between two slices of bread, lightly buttered, with a touch of mustard and a slice or two of pickle added. A very hearty combination known as Deutsches Beefsteak.

The great hamburger bun, probably the largest single specialty item in the bakeries today according to Vernon Baird, President of Mrs. Baird's Bakeries, did not make its appearance until when someone decided to serve hamburgers on buns at the great St. Louis Exposition. From that time on the popularity of the hamburger has grown more than any one American favorite, is made in numberless variations, with different combinations or just plain, depending on the section of the country in which you might order it, available just about any place you eat out and served at home by the millions, doctored to suit individual tastes. It is true, however, that the bun on which it is served is an integral part of the overall goodness of the finished production. It's freshness,

AMERICAN FAVORITE — The American favorite, the Hamburger, had its origin way back in 1891 in Hamburg, Germany. The name stayed the same but today's versions don't look much like the original.

flavor and texture add much to make this a mediocre or superb combination.

Broil or pan fry your beef patty, toast or lightly saute the cut sides of the bun, add whatever you choose - pickle relish, lettuce, a tomato slice, mustard, catsup, dill pickle slices, etc. - for the usual, or try one of the following for a change of pace.

Hamburgers-The Old and The New

What's new about the great American tradition, the hamburger? Only the variations you might add to come up with a different taste treat of the old and ever popular favorite. Traditionally, the hamburger has been around a long, long time, having had its origin in a restaurant back of the waterfront in — where else — Hamburg, Germany.

The story is that in 1891, Otto Kuase, a cook in the restaurant back of the waterfront, made a sandwich which the sailors who stopped at the port liked extremely well, and, in 1894, some of these same sailors visited the port of New York and told restaurant owners about Hamburg Otto's fine sandwich, which these restaurants in turn started making for their customers. In short order, all the sailors had to do was ask for a "hamburger" to get the then popular version.

As so often happens, changes have been made in the original version, but the name and its popularity have increased over the years. The original was made like this and you might like to try it for a change. The meat patty was made of ground sausage beef fried in butter. Then an egg was lightly fried on both sides in butter. This combination was placed between two slices of bread, lightly buttered, with a touch of mustard and a slice or two of pickle added. A very hearty combination known as Deutsches Beefsteak.

The great hamburger bun, probably the largest single specialty item in the bakeries today according to Vernon Baird, President of Mrs. Baird's Bakeries, did not make its appearance until when someone decided to serve hamburgers on buns at the great St. Louis Exposition. From that time on the popularity of the hamburger has grown more than any one American favorite, is made in numberless variations, with different combinations or just plain, depending on the section of the country in which you might order it, available just about any place you eat out and served at home by the millions, doctored to suit individual tastes. It is true, however, that the bun on which it is served is an integral part of the overall goodness of the finished production. It's freshness,

AMERICAN FAVORITE — The American favorite, the Hamburger, had its origin way back in 1891 in Hamburg, Germany. The name stayed the same but today's versions don't look much like the original.

flavor and texture add much to make this a mediocre or superb combination.

Broil or pan fry your beef patty, toast or lightly saute the cut sides of the bun, add whatever you choose - pickle relish, lettuce, a tomato slice, mustard, catsup, dill pickle slices, etc. - for the usual, or try one of the following for a change of pace.

FROM THE FILES . . .

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
(June 4, 1926)

Last Monday was a good day for the Rural Mail Carriers of this district. About one hundred and fifty carriers, postmasters and their wives and children were here. The program was held in the High School auditorium with President Slater of Clyde presiding.

Owing to the fact that Slater was late in arriving, the program did not get underway till about eleven o'clock at which time the convention opened by singing America, being led by Evangelist Reynolds of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Adcock of Merkel, a carrier of the mail from that post office for eighteen years, responded on behalf of the convention. Each speaker being faced with the shortness of the time cut his talk down to the shortest.

The noon hour which was from one to two o'clock, was spent at the Park where a picnic luncheon was served by the local Chamber of Commerce. The ladies and children were presented complimentary tickets to the theatre for the afternoon.

On resuming the program in the afternoon the principal feature was strictly on how and why to render the best service to the people, and the election of officers.

Mr. Fletcher, one of the committee on arrangements ask the Herald to say for him and the visitors that they appreciate the courtesies shown during the convention. This is the second time Hamlin has entertained the "Mail" boys and they seem to esteem Hamlin very highly.

The writer and evangelist of the Church of Christ in Hamlin closed a real good meeting Sunday night with an overflow audience. In fact the meeting was well attended, and much interest manifested throughout, despite the very unwelcome tent show in town and the exceptionally busy week with the farmers. While the number of additions to the church was not large, yet it is conceded by the church that the greatest good accomplished was the sowing of the seed of the kingdom, the word of God, into soil and the inspiration and encouragement of the saints.

Hearty thanks are tendered the Herald Editor by the evangelist and entire church for the liberal and attractive advertising of the meeting.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
(June 8, 1951)

Further rains that fell over the week-end varied in totals over the section of Jones County in reports to the Herald. Average announced was 3.88 inches for the two day period. Heaviest downpour was north of Hamlin and along the highway to Anson.

Distressing development of the heavy rains was that none fell in the immediate vicinity of the new lake, which is source of water supply for Hamlin. City official watched the feeder creeks to the reservoir closely for some evidence of additional supply but none had developed Monday.

The abundance of water was cause for feverish field preparation by farmers in this section for planting and replanting cotton as the need arose.

Delay in planting of cotton has caused many farmers to switch to maize on their acreage.

Plans of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to sponsor a softball league for the summer in Hamlin were dealt a severe blow in the week just passed.

Operation of the summer program can only be conducted if a sufficient number of teams participate in the play and these have not aligned themselves with the project yet.

Thus far Celotex, Plainview, McCaulley and VFW have signified that they would participate. Roby indicated an interest in the league but have not been able to get together on participation. A sponsor has not been found for the Lions Club team last year. Hitson has a group of performers who made a strong showing last year but has met with difficulty in organizing this year.

The Sylvester club which finished in the league last year informed Pikey Woods of VFW that they have lost too many players to join the fracas this year.

Woods has not abandoned all plans for the league but he told a Herald representative that he was waiting for interest to be indicated by other clubs.

TEN YEARS AGO
(June 8, 1961)

Between 300 and 400 contestants are expected to be in Hamlin June 15-16 to compete for the three saddles to be awarded at the annual Hamlin Riding Club's Junior Rodeo. The saddles will be awarded to the three age groups competing in the rodeo.

The prize saddles have been donated by the Mid West Cooperative Oil Mill, the Pied Piper Mills and the Hawkins Pole Hereford Ranch.

The rodeo has been approved by the American Junior Rodeo Association this year which accounts for the increase in contestant from the 175 who entered last year according to the Riding Club.

To help publicize the rodeo a motorcade has been planned for Monday morning at 8:30 that will travel to Anson, Stamford, Haskell, Rule, Aspermont, Rotan and Roby. Everyone who can make the trip has been invited to participate.

The Hamlin Swimming Pool is now open each day from 2 until 7 p.m. according to Mrs. John T. Johnson, operator.

Admission prices during the month of June for those under 12 years of age will be 25 cents, students, 35 cents and adults 50 cents. Mrs. Johnson has stated that the prices may have to be increased if the attendance is not good, in order to meet the expenses of operation.

Swimming lessons will start Monday at 9 a.m. at the rate of $10 per two weeks.

Each Thursday from 6 until 9 p.m. has been designated as Family Night at the pool, while each Tuesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. will be for Ladies only.

The pool is available for private parties again this year and the charge will be $10 an evening.

There will be a swimming meet once each month and free passes will be given to winners in each age group.

Neinda Philosopher Wrought Up Over Prospects of Cities Going Down Drain

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route one comes to the defense of the big cities this week, more or less.

Dear editor:
As I understand it, the country's biggest cities, biggest railroad, biggest plane manufacturer and smallest farmers are all in the same boat — they're busted.

Take the cities, for example, since there are so many of them and only one busted railroad and one busted plane maker and as for the farmers, that's nothing new, they've been hard up for the last 50 years.

But cities, why three-fourths of the entire population live in the big cities and if they're facing financial disaster you can't push them under the rug as though they were marginal farmers or unemployed Ph.D's.

As a result there is a drive on, according to the newspapers that turn up out here, to help the big cities with what is called revenue-sharing. The federal government would distribute 5 or 6 billion dollars to the cities to use as they please, patching up their streets, unclogging their sewers, replacing the broken window panes in their school buildings, re-arranging their slums, paying off the second lien on their transportation system, fighting crime, etc.; then when that played out, well, no use getting too far ahead, they'd cross that bridge when they came to it, provided Congress furnished the money to make the bridge cross-able. The problem is far too big for me to handle. In fact I'm no better able to handle it than the average big city mayor.

But I do agree with one Congressman who was wrestling hard with the problem. He said he didn't know what the answer was either but, and I quote, "We can't let the cities go down the drain."

He's absolutely right about that. The lakes and streams of this country are already in such bad shape and the cities' sewer systems are already so overburdened that if you let the cities wash down into them the pollution problem would be so big it staggers the imagination. Where's the river that could handle even Abilene, not to mention New York or Los Angeles? It'd take a thousand years to get the rivers and lakes back in fishing condition.

I don't care what it costs, let's hold the cities together where they are. We can worry about the railroad and the airplanes later.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

FOR EVERY PROBLEM, THERE IS A SOLUTION

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Coleman Adv. Ser.

Tracking a basic defect

Dallas researchers discover cancer cell's cholesterol-regulating 'thermostat' goes awry

Scientists at The University of Texas (Southwestern) Medical School at Dallas have tracked a basic defect which causes a cancer cell's cholesterol-regulating "thermostat" to go awry.

A normal body cell has a regulating mechanism which keeps it from producing too much or too little cholesterol. But a cancer cell apparently loses this "feedback" control at a time and site pinpointed for the first time by a research team headed by Dr. Marvin D. Siperstein at the Dallas Medical School.

An enzyme called mevalonate synthetase is involved in the loss of feedback control in production of cholesterol by cancerous liver cells in rats, according to the researchers' article in the latest Proceedings of the National Academy of Science.

This breakdown is "the only known consistent defect in the control mechanism of cancer," said Dr. Siperstein, a professor of internal medicine.

'Important Step'

Dr. Siperstein termed the discovery "an important step" which tells researchers where—but not how or why—the chemical breakdown occurs.

"Now," he said, "we know exactly where the problem lies. We have to see what's wrong with that enzyme by isolating it, analyzing it; and we hope thereby to see whether loss of the key controlling mechanisms (cholesterol feedback) can be ascribed to a specific defect in a specific protein."

Thus an investigation that began five years ago as an almost accidental offshoot of heart research becomes an intensified probe into the mysteries of cancer cells' chemical malfunctions—with hoped-for implications aiding both basic knowledge and treatment of the disease.

"This study may have fundamental importance in determining what biochemical changes underlie cancer, and it may offer a means of testing for cancer—but both of these are in the future," Dr. Siperstein said.

The UTMS scientists already can diagnose liver cancer in laboratory animals with their cholesterolmeasuring technique, and a "simple blood test" similar to current thyroid examinations could one day evolve to diagnose liver cancer (and, possibly, other forms) in humans, he believes.

'Good One To Study'

Liver cancer was chosen for the experiments, Dr. Siperstein explained, because "it is a good one to study."

"We know so much about the biochemistry of the liver," he said. "The slow-growing tumors offer a model for studying other cancers, and what is true of liver cancer probably will be true of other cancers." (Liver cancer, rare in the United States, is one of the most common forms of human cancer worldwide.)

Studies so far have concentrated on liver cancer in animals, but similar preliminary results have been obtained also in animals with leukemia, the scientist said. Experiments are being extended presently to breast cancer.

Only tests involving humans so far have been biopsies (microscopic examinations) of a few liver tumors, Dr. Siperstein said. The resulting data, while inadequate for sound scientific conclusions, is nonetheless encouraging.

"We found that this feedback system had been destroyed in human beings," Dr. Siperstein said, comparing the feedback system with a thermostat.

"You feed cholesterol, cholesterol synthesis stops. This represents what is termed 'feedback control' or thermostat control of cholesterol synthesis, and the process serves to keep the level of cholesterol on the body normal as a thermostat keeps the temperature in a room normal."

The most recent studies identified the particular enzyme or change-causing chemical involved in this thermostat process.

"We had a lot of indirect evidence that this probably was the enzymatic site," he explained. "We took normal and cancer tissue from livers of rats and, using tracer materials, specifically measured the critical enzyme mevalonate synthetase.

"And we showed that in a normal animal liver upon being fed cholesterol, this enzyme decreased enormously"—indicating the chemical "thermostat" was working.

"But in cancer tissue, the enzyme level didn't change at all. That means that it was this enzyme that is responsible for the synthesis, and that it has become insensitive to thermostat control."

The result is continued production by the enzyme of a chemical called mevalonate, which is manufactured in the cancerous tissues.

The Dallas researchers stumbled onto the intriguing cholesterol-cancer link while studying the fatty substance's better-known relationship, that with blood vessel and heart disease.

Discover Key Enzyme

Armed with a grant from the National Institutes of Health to study atherosclerosis, Dr. Siperstein and his associates began studying the control of cholesterol synthesis, in an effort to find out why cholesterol levels are high in many heart patients.

In the process, they discovered the key enzyme suspected of controlling the feedback regulation.

"And then, almost by chance, we decided to look and see whether cancer tissue could synthesize cholesterol," he related. "Much to our surprise, cancer not only produced cholesterol, but made too much of it."

Dr. Siperstein queried the NIH, and the federal agency readily agreed that the work should switch into this promising new direction. So the original heart-disease study was virtually abandoned to other researchers.

"This work illustrates the fundamental wisdom of the National Institutes of Health policy of allowing investigators to follow interesting leads, even though those leads may have nothing to do with the original research project," he observed.

"A more restrictive policy, forcing scientists to do only what they agreed to do, would have prevented us from ever making this study."

Defect Precedes Disease

Experiments with rainbow trout, widespread victims of liver cancer blamed on the chemical aflatoxin, confirmed that the cholesterol mechanism was knocked out by the chemical long before any trace of cancer appeared—indicating, Dr. Siperstein said, that the defect precedes the disease and not the other way around.

That fact, plus knowledge that the cholesterol malfunction is the only known such defect consistently occurring in cancer, leads the scientists to the obvious—but so far unanswerable—question:

Do the uncontrolled cholesterol output and the cancer process itself—also a process of uncontrolled growth—stem from the same faulty enzymatic "thermostat"?

In that question is sufficient scientific challenge to fuel laboratory labors at UTMS for years to come.

First and second alternates are Mike McKay of Crane and Willie Richardson Wilson Jr. of Lubbock.

The $800 scholarship is awarded each year to a student who will study journalism at a West Texas college or university, and who indicates a desire to enter the field of newspaper journalism after graduation. The scholarship is paid in installments of $200 per school year for a period of four years.

David, who ranks in the top five percent of his class, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Clark of Stamford.

He became active in the Distributive Education Program in Stamford High School his junior year and has been employed at the Stamford American since 1969. Working at the American, David has served as sports writer, photographer, Linotype operator, worked in the advertising department, worked in the job printing department and in the offset department.

David was elected president of the Stamford Distributive Education Chapter his senior year and has served on the Stamford Student Council for five years. He was named Stamford High School Honor Student his sophomore year and is a member of the National Latin Honor Society.

Active in the Boy Scout program, David was awarded the rank of Eagle Scout in 1967 and served as a counselor at Camp Tonkawa in the summer of 1968.

Mike, the first alternate winner in the contest, will be graduated from Crane High School this spring. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McKay.

He is presently serving as the editor-in-chief of his school newspaper, "The Crane." He was a cub reporter on the newspaper both his freshman and sophomore years and was assistant circulation manager his junior year.

He was a district contestant in headline writing and news writing in the UIL Literary Contest this year.

As a senior he has been honored as sweetheart of the Golden Crane Homemakers of America Club, sweetheart nominee of the Golden Crane Marching Band, Mr. School Spirit, and the Wittiest in the Annual School Coronation. He has been a member of the Future Teachers of America Club for four years and in the band since the fifth grade.

After graduation in May he plans to attend Angelo State University where he will major in journalism and minor in speech.

The Haskell Free Press — Due to the increased cost of operating schools and the loss of mineral values, as well as loss of average daily attendance, officials of the Haskell Independent School District state that it is necessary to increase the established value of all property in the district. Haskell school taxes have not been raised since 1958, they said.

The Board of Trustees voted to increase the established values of all property from 40 percent to 65 percent, and to lower the tax rate to approximately $1.20 per hundred.

Most of the cost increase was brought about by acts of the 61st Texas Legislature on the following:

Early Certification Urged For Area Farm Producers

Producers have to certify their compliance under the 1971 set-aside farm programs. Deadline for certification in Jones County is August 1, 1971, according to A. D. Hill, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

In most cases, it will be to a producer's advantage to certify his program as early as possible, he said. However, he emphasized that early certification is optional, and that a producer may certify at any time through August 1, 1971.

A producer must complete his certification before he can receive any set-aside payment. To certify, a producer signs a statement at the County ASCS Office showing the acreage devoted to various crops under the 1971 farm programs. At the same time, he designates the amount and location of his set-aside acres.

"The Jones County ASCS Office is ready to give farmers all possible help in correctly certifying their acres," Mr. Hill said. "County Executive Director Robert B. Rowland and his staff will be glad to photography of their farms to help them certify, ASC Committee Chairman Hill said. The photocopies show boundaries of farms and most up-to-date field acreage information. They are valuable for planning farm operations as well as for certification of program compliance.

The County ASCS office also provides measurement service, at cost, to help producers determine acreages at planting or at certification time.

"Most producers are familiar with our system of certification, followed by spot checks around the County to verify accuracy of these statements," Mr. Hill said. "Producers can certify acreages once they complete their planting operations if they do not plan to make any changes. The important thing is to certify accurately and as soon as practical for early payments. But they must remember no changes can be made after certification."

NEWS FROM . . .

Sylvester

By MRS R M BABB

Such a lovely spring morning and everyone is busy, busy. We had a beautiful weekend for the Old Settlers Reunion and Cemetery working at the Newman Cemetery Saturday. Some 160 people from every part of the country came to work and visit. The person coming the farthest was from California. Others came from Wichita Falls, Merkel, Trent, Houston, Atlanta, Stephenville, Abilene, Sweetwater, Rotan, Roby, Sylvester and many other places. It was a success.

Mrs. Myrtle Woodson of Atlanta, Tx., spent Sunday night in the W. B. Brown home. In the R. M. Babb home over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jackson of Wichita Falls.

We are sorry to learn that L. B. (Red) Howard is very ill and is in intensive care in West Texas Medical Center in Abilene.

Our sympathy to the family of Tom Early who passed away last week. The Earlys lived here for many years.

The John Faught family of Abilene spent the weekend in the Bill Kelley home. Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Williams and daughter of Irving spent the weekend with his mother, Gladys Williams. Also in the Williams' home Saturday was Eva Gean Wilson of Meadow. In the Guy Mauldin home this week are a grandson of Midland, a grandson of Clifton and a granddaughter of Roby.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lanning drove to Elgin Air Base in Florida to visit with Capt. and Mrs. Lee Lanning and granddaughter, Revelille. Returning with them was Mrs. Judy Lanning and children and they are visiting also in the W. E. Edwards home in Rotan, while Capt. Jimmy Lanning is spending some time in Bolivia.

Sylvester Baptist Church reports a very good Vacation Bible School. The last four nights Bro. Ed Jackson of Abilene spoke in a Rival which was good. Ten professions of faith and one membership by letter was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Gray's granddaughters from Springtown have been visiting with them for the past two weeks.

The Freddie Perales family of San Antonio are visiting in the

Pete Perales home. We have just had a shower. 40 of an inch along with some small hail.

NEWS AND VIEWS . . .

And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

From all indications the Sidewalk Sale and Flea Market held here last Friday was a big success. It would have been nice if more people had brought their goods to town to sell, but all in all it was a real good day. There were a lot of people in town and everyone seemed to have a good time. I hope that the Retail Trade Committee will come up with something similar to this on a regular basis. It would be good for everyone concerned if some kind of special event could be staged about every three months.

I hope that the courts will throw out the redistricting bill passed by the legislature that divides Jones County into two different districts. It appears now that there is no question but what the case will be taken to the courts as soon as the Governor signs the bill. There isn't anything wrong with the district that the west half of Jones County, including Hamlin, was put in and there probably isn't anything wrong with the district the rest of Jones County was put in, but the whole county is likely to suffer by being in two different districts. Jones County is one of the larger of the West Texas Counties and should muster some weight in legislature but not by being divided.

I can foresee a number of problems that could face us with the county divided this way. Most local problems that deal with the legislature or problems that the legislature can help solve are county-wide in scope and it is likely that things will be a little more involved in trying to deal with them.

It appears that Jones County was a victim of fallout in the effort by House Speaker Mutscher to eliminate all those who opposed him during the past session. While the problem wasn't in this area the committee evidently started where the problems were and then just patched up what was left over to make the districts come out even.

From the news stories coming out of Austin since the legislature adjourned it would appear that in the process of doing this Mutscher made a whole lot more enemies than he did friends. He started out opposing the re-election of the so called "dirty 30" who opposed him and now it looks like he will be lucky if he can come up with 30 that back him.

If it were not for the fact that we will have to live with the results of redistricting for 10 years, barring a court ordered change, it would be some consolation that the legislature just gets to make a mess of redistricting every 10 years.

Congressman Omar Burleson came out better in the Congressional redistricting than it first looked like he might. He lost some counties and gained some but all in all he came out in pretty good shape. It first looked like he would be moved over to the point where he would have to have a big part of Fort Worth in his district. It is hard to find anything common between the needs of Fort Worth and the needs of Hamlin.

I suspect that since Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes lives in Burleson's district this had something to do with his coming out as well as he did.

As far as the State Senate is concerned the legislature failed to come up with a redistricting bill and the matter will have to be handled by a special committee. While this method is used only when the legislature fails to do the job, I suspect that in the long run there would be less politics involved if all of the redistricting was done by special committees. It is hard for a legislator not to think of his own political future before he thinks about anything else.

Unless the committee that works on the Senatorial district goes off on a new tangent, it is likely that Jones County will remain in the district being served by David Ratliff of Stamford.

Huge Turnout Expected Here For Partnership Golf Tourney

The Hamlin Country Club will hold its annual Partnership Golf Tournament this weekend with 48 teams expected to take part in the event. Qualifying will take place Friday with play to start Saturday morning.

Eighteen hole matches will be played Saturday and Sunday. A spokesman for the Club said that he expects more than 48 two-man teams to want to play in the tourney but that the field will be cut to 48 because that it about all the course can handle.

A pit barbecue supper will be held Saturday evening with tickets available at the door for those not playing in the tournament. The tickets are $2.00 each.

With the recent rains and a considerable amount of work being done this year, the course is in the best shape it has been in a long time. Bill Harbert said this week that the lake is full, the greens are in good shape, some of the fairways have been watered and the course was real pretty.

Entry fee for the tournament is $30 a team and golf equipment will be given as prizes in each flight. Qualifying scores must be turned in not later than 6 p.m. Friday.

Rape, Burglary Charges Filed On Hamlin Man

Felony rape and burglary charges were filed Monday against Billy Joe Jeffrey, 23, of Hamlin, in connection with the Saturday assault on a 21-year-old Hamlin housewife in her home.

Jones County Judge Leon Thurman denied Jeffrey bond and the accused is in Jones County jail.

The investigating officer said the woman received minor injuries during a Saturday attack and that her 18-month-old child escaped injury. A window was broken to gain entry.

Officers said the assailant took some money from his victim's purse before fleeing in the early hours Saturday.

Jeffrey was arrested later in the morning, they said.

Book, 'Memories Of McCauley,' Nears Completion

There are stories, anecdotes, and historical facts, all written in a way that should be interesting reading for those who have lived in the community, or to anyone else who is interested in the grass roots history of a community. The book is called "Memories of McCauley," and has been compiled by R. B. Hennington of Hamlin and Ora Stephenson Carruth of Port Arthur.

The book will be ready for distribution within the next few days. Details of its sale are listed in the classified section.

Hamburgers-The Old and The New

What's new about the great American tradition, the hamburger? Only the variations you might add to come up with a different taste treat of the old and ever popular favorite. Traditionally, the hamburger has been around a long, long time, having had its origin in a restaurant back of the waterfront in — where else — Hamburg, Germany.

The story is that in 1891, Otto Kuase, a cook in the restaurant back of the waterfront, made a sandwich which the sailors who stopped at the port liked extremely well, and, in 1894, some of these same sailors visited the port of New York and told restaurant owners about Hamburg Otto's fine sandwich, which these restaurants in turn started making for their customers. In short order, all the sailors had to do was ask for a "hamburger" to get the then popular version.

As so often happens, changes have been made in the original version, but the name and its popularity have increased over the years. The original was made like this and you might like to try it for a change. The meat patty was made of ground sausage beef fried in butter. Then an egg was lightly fried on both sides in butter. This combination was placed between two slices of bread, lightly buttered, with a touch of mustard and a slice or two of pickle added. A very hearty combination known as Deutsches Beefsteak.

The great hamburger bun, probably the largest single specialty item in the bakeries today according to Vernon Baird, President of Mrs. Baird's Bakeries, did not make its appearance until when someone decided to serve hamburgers on buns at the great St. Louis Exposition. From that time on the popularity of the hamburger has grown more than any one American favorite, is made in numberless variations, with different combinations or just plain, depending on the section of the country in which you might order it, available just about any place you eat out and served at home by the millions, doctored to suit individual tastes. It is true, however, that the bun on which it is served is an integral part of the overall goodness of the finished production. It's freshness,

Hamburgers-The Old and The New

What's new about the great American tradition, the hamburger? Only the variations you might add to come up with a different taste treat of the old and ever popular favorite. Traditionally, the hamburger has been around a long, long time, having had its origin in a restaurant back of the waterfront in — where else — Hamburg, Germany.

The story is that in 1891, Otto Kuase, a cook in the restaurant back of the waterfront, made a sandwich which the sailors who stopped at the port liked extremely well, and, in 1894, some of these same sailors visited the port of New York and told restaurant owners about Hamburg Otto's fine sandwich, which these restaurants in turn started making for their customers. In short order, all the sailors had to do was ask for a "hamburger" to get the then popular version.

As so often happens, changes have been made in the original version, but the name and its popularity have increased over the years. The original was made like this and you might like to try it for a change. The meat patty was made of ground sausage beef fried in butter. Then an egg was lightly fried on both sides in butter. FROM THE FILES . . .

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
(June 4, 1926)

Last Monday was a good day for the Rural Mail Carriers of this district. About one hundred and fifty carriers, postmasters and their wives and children were here. The program was held in the High School auditorium with President Slater of Clyde presiding.

Owing to the fact that Slater was late in arriving, the program did not get underway till about eleven o'clock at which time the convention opened by singing America, being led by Evangelist Reynolds of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Adcock of Merkel, a carrier of the mail from that post office for eighteen years, responded on behalf of the convention. Each speaker being faced with the shortness of the time cut his talk down to the shortest.

The noon hour which was from one to two o'clock, was spent at the Park where a picnic luncheon was served by the local Chamber of Commerce. The ladies and children were presented complimentary tickets to the theatre for the afternoon.

On resuming the program in the afternoon the principal feature was strictly on how and why to render the best service to the people, and the election of officers.

Mr. Fletcher, one of the committee on arrangements ask the Herald to say for him and the visitors that they appreciate the courtesies shown during the convention. This is the second time Hamlin has entertained the "Mail" boys and they seem to esteem Hamlin very highly.

The writer and evangelist of the Church of Christ in Hamlin closed a real good meeting Sunday night with an overflow audience. In fact the meeting was well attended, and much interest manifested throughout, despite the very unwelcome tent show in town and the exceptionally busy week with the farmers. While the number of additions to the church was not large, yet it is conceded by the church that the greatest good accomplished was the sowing of the seed of the kingdom, the word of God, into soil and the inspiration and encouragement of the saints.

Hearty thanks are tendered the Herald Editor by the evangelist and entire church for the liberal and attractive advertising of the meeting.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
(June 8, 1951)

Further rains that fell over the week-end varied in totals over the section of Jones County in reports to the Herald. Average announced was 3.88 inches for the two day period. Heaviest downpour was north of Hamlin and along the highway to Anson.

Distressing development of the heavy rains was that none fell in the immediate vicinity of the new lake, which is source of water supply for Hamlin. City official watched the feeder creeks to the reservoir closely for some evidence of additional supply but none had developed Monday.

The abundance of water was cause for feverish field preparation by farmers in this section for planting and replanting cotton as the need arose.

Delay in planting of cotton has caused many farmers to switch to maize on their acreage.

Plans of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to sponsor a softball league for the summer in Hamlin were dealt a severe blow in the week just passed.

Operation of the summer program can only be conducted if a sufficient number of teams participate in the play and these have not aligned themselves with the project yet.

Thus far Celotex, Plainview, McCaulley and VFW have signified that they would participate. Roby indicated an interest in the league but have not been able to get together on participation. A sponsor has not been found for the Lions Club team last year. Hitson has a group of performers who made a strong showing last year but has met with difficulty in organizing this year.

The Sylvester club which finished in the league last year informed Pikey Woods of VFW that they have lost too many players to join the fracas this year.

Woods has not abandoned all plans for the league but he told a Herald representative that he was waiting for interest to be indicated by other clubs.

TEN YEARS AGO
(June 8, 1961)

Between 300 and 400 contestants are expected to be in Hamlin June 15-16 to compete for the three saddles to be awarded at the annual Hamlin Riding Club's Junior Rodeo. The saddles will be awarded to the three age groups competing in the rodeo.

The prize saddles have been donated by the Mid West Cooperative Oil Mill, the Pied Piper Mills and the Hawkins Pole Hereford Ranch.

The rodeo has been approved by the American Junior Rodeo Association this year which accounts for the increase in contestant from the 175 who entered last year according to the Riding Club.

To help publicize the rodeo a motorcade has been planned for Monday morning at 8:30 that will travel to Anson, Stamford, Haskell, Rule, Aspermont, Rotan and Roby. Everyone who can make the trip has been invited to participate.

The Hamlin Swimming Pool is now open each day from 2 until 7 p.m. according to Mrs. John T. Johnson, operator.

Admission prices during the month of June for those under 12 years of age will be 25 cents, students, 35 cents and adults 50 cents. Mrs. Johnson has stated that the prices may have to be increased if the attendance is not good, in order to meet the expenses of operation.

Swimming lessons will start Monday at 9 a.m. at the rate of $10 per two weeks.

Each Thursday from 6 until 9 p.m. has been designated as Family Night at the pool, while each Tuesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. will be for Ladies only.

The pool is available for private parties again this year and the charge will be $10 an evening.

There will be a swimming meet once each month and free passes will be given to winners in each age group.

FOR EVERY PROBLEM, THERE IS A SOLUTION

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Neinda Philosopher Wrought Up Over
Prospects of Cities Going Down Drain

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route one comes to the defense of the big cities this week, more or less.

Dear editor:

As I understand it, the country's biggest cities, biggest railroad, biggest plane manufacturer and smallest farmers are all in the same boat — they're busted.

Take the cities, for example, since there are so many of them and only one busted railroad and one busted plane maker and as for the farmers, that's nothing new, they've been hard up for the last 50 years.

As a result there is a drive on, according to the newspapers that turn up out here, to help the big cities with what is called revenue-sharing. The federal government would distribute 5 or 6 billion dollars to the cities to use as they please, patching up their streets, unclogging their sewers, replacing the broken window panes in their school buildings, re-arranging their slums, paying off the second lien on their transportation system, fighting crime, etc.; then when that played out, well, no use getting too far ahead, they'd cross that bridge when they came to it, provided Congress furnished the money to make the bridge cross-able.

The problem is far too big for me to handle. In fact I'm no better able to handle it than the average big city mayor.

But I do agree with one Congressman who was wrestling hard with the problem. He said he didn't know what the answer was either but, and I quote, "We can't let the cities go down the drain." He's absolutely right about that. The lakes and streams of this country are already in such bad shape and the cities' sewer systems are already so overburdened that if you let the cities wash down into them the pollution problem would be so big it staggers the imagination. Where's the river that could handle even Abilene, not to mention New York or Los Angeles? It'd take a thousand years to get the rivers and lakes back in fishing condition.

I don't care what it costs, let's hold the cities together where they are. We can worry about the railroad and the airplanes later.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

Tracking a basic defect

Dallas researchers discover cancer cell's cholesterol-regulating 'thermostat' goes awry

Scientists at The University of Texas (Southwestern) Medical School at Dallas have tracked a basic defect which causes a cancer cell's cholesterol-regulating "thermostat" to go awry.

A normal body cell has a regulating mechanism which keeps it from producing too much or too little cholesterol. But a cancer cell apparently loses this "feedback" control at a time and site pinpointed for the first time by a research team headed by Dr. Marvin D. Siperstein at the Dallas Medical School.

An enzyme called mevalonate synthetase is involved in the loss of feedback control in production of cholesterol by cancerous liver cells in rats, according to the researchers' article in the latest Proceedings of the National Academy of Science.

This breakdown is "the only known consistent defect in the control mechanism of cancer," said Dr. Siperstein, a professor of internal medicine.

Important Step

Dr. Siperstein termed the discovery "an important step" which tells researchers where—but not how or why—the chemical breakdown occurs.

"Now," he said, "we know exactly where the problem lies. We have to see what's wrong with that enzyme by isolating it, analyzing it; and we hope thereby to see whether loss of the key controlling mechanisms (cholesterol feedback) can be ascribed to a specific defect in a specific protein."

Thus an investigation that began five years ago as an almost accidental offshoot of heart research becomes an intensified probe into the mysteries of cancer cells' chemical malfunctions—with hoped-for implications aiding both basic knowledge and treatment of the disease.

"This study may have fundamental importance in determining what biochemical changes underlie cancer, and it may offer a means of testing for cancer—but both of these are in the future," Dr. Siperstein said.

The UTMSM scientists already can diagnose liver cancer in laboratory animals with their cholesterolmeasuring technique, and a "simple blood test" similar to current thyroid examinations could one day evolve to diagnose liver cancer (and, possibly, other forms) in humans, he believes.

Good One To Study

Liver cancer was chosen for the experiments, Dr. Siperstein explained, because "it is a good one to study."

"We know so much about the biochemistry of the liver," he said. "The slow-growing tumors offer a model for studying other cancers, and what is true of liver cancer probably will be true of other cancers." (Liver cancer, rare in the United States, is one of the most common forms of human cancer worldwide.)

Studies so far have concentrated on liver cancer in animals, but similar preliminary results have been obtained also in animals with leukemia, the scientist said. Experiments are being extended presently to breast cancer.

Only tests involving humans so far have been biopsies (microscopic examinations) of a few liver tumors, Dr. Siperstein said. The resulting data, while inadequate for sound scientific conclusions, is nonetheless encouraging.

"We found that this feedback system had been destroyed in human beings," Dr. Siperstein said, comparing the feedback system with a thermostat.

"You feed cholesterol, cholesterol synthesis stops. This represents what is termed 'feedback control' or thermostat control of cholesterol synthesis, and the process serves to keep the level of cholesterol on the body normal as a thermostat keeps the temperature in a room normal."

The most recent studies identified the particular enzyme or change-causing chemical involved in this thermostat process.

"We had a lot of indirect evidence that this probably was the enzymatic site," he explained. "We took normal and cancer tissue from livers of rats and, using tracer materials, specifically measured the critical enzyme mevalonate synthetase.

"And we showed that in a normal animal liver upon being fed cholesterol, this enzyme decreased enormously"—indicating the chemical "thermostat" was working.

"But in cancer tissue, the enzyme level didn't change at all. That means that it was this enzyme that is responsible for the synthesis, and that it has become insensitive to thermostat control."

The result is continued production by the enzyme of a chemical called mevalonate, which is manufactured in the cancerous tissues.

The Dallas researchers stumbled onto the intriguing cholesterol-cancer link while studying the fatty substance's better-known relationship, that with blood vessel and heart disease.

Discover Key Enzyme

Armed with a grant from the National Institutes of Health to study atherosclerosis, Dr. Siperstein and his associates began studying the control of cholesterol synthesis, in an effort to find out why cholesterol levels are high in many heart patients.

In the process, they discovered the key enzyme suspected of controlling the feedback regulation.

"And then, almost by chance, we decided to look and see whether cancer tissue could synthesize cholesterol," he related. "Much to our surprise, cancer not only produced cholesterol, but made too much of it."

Dr. Siperstein queried the NIH, and the federal agency readily agreed that the work should switch into this promising new direction. So the original heart-disease study was virtually abandoned to other researchers.

"This work illustrates the fundamental wisdom of the National Institutes of Health policy of allowing investigators to follow interesting leads, even though those leads may have nothing to do with the original research project," he observed.

"A more restrictive policy, forcing scientists to do only what they agreed to do, would have prevented us from ever making this study."

Defect Precedes Disease

Experiments with rainbow trout, widespread victims of liver cancer blamed on the chemical aflatoxin, confirmed that the cholesterol mechanism was knocked out by the chemical long before any trace of cancer appeared—indicating, Dr. Siperstein said, that the defect precedes the disease and not the other way around.

That fact, plus knowledge that the cholesterol malfunction is the only known such defect consistently occurring in cancer, leads the scientists to the obvious—but so far unanswerable—question:

Do the uncontrolled cholesterol output and the cancer process itself—also a process of uncontrolled growth—stem from the same faulty enzymatic "thermostat"?

In that question is sufficient scientific challenge to fuel laboratory labors at UTMSM for years to come.

Father's Day Observation Started In 1910

Father's Day to be observed this year on June 20, was started by Mrs. John B. Dodd, Spokane, Wash. native who, with her brothers and sisters, was raised by her father after her mother's death. She started a campaign back in 1909 to establish a Sunday in June to honor all fathers. The idea was a popular one and it caught on quickly. June of 1910, the first Father's Day was celebrated.

In the 61 years since Mrs. Dodd's efforts were rewarded with the first Father's Day, she has seen it become a national tradition.

When Father's Day is celebrated this year the nation will pay tribute to the heads of nearly 50 million households

The Haskell Free Press — Due to the increased cost of operating schools and the loss of mineral values, as well as loss of average daily attendance, officials of the Haskell Independent School District state that it is necessary to increase the established value of all property in the district. Haskell school taxes have not been raised since 1958, they said.

The Board of Trustees voted to increase the established values of all property from 40 percent to 65 percent, and to lower the tax rate to approximately $1.20 per hundred.

Most of the cost increase was brought about by acts of the 61st Texas Legislature on the following:

Compulsory kindergarten, ten-month school program, in-service training, salary increases, special education and bus insurance.

Rotan Advance — Rotan Chamber of Commerce members soundly defeated a proposed move to establish a Chamber of Commerce office and employ a part-time, paid secretary-coordinator in their annual balloting last week.

Twenty-three members voted against increasing the C of C dues in order to provide the office, while only 16 were in favor of the plan.

New directors elected were: Cecil Champion, Lorena Darden, Bill Day and Larry Landes.

E. G. Perkins, Fisher County Judge for the past nine years, tendered his resignation effective June 30, to accept the position of Hobbs School Superintendent.

Judge Perkins was elected to his third term as County Judge in 1970. His present term would not have expired until 1974.

Hallie Gee, present Hobbs Superintendent, is vacating the position to accept the head job at Jim Ned Consolidated School.

Western Observer (Anson) — Hymer Cleaners, being opened by Mr. and Mrs. Don Hymer of Hamlin in the Bland Harper Building, is the latest addition to the downtown business section.

Mr. and Mrs. Hymer own a home in Hamlin, but plan to move to Anson.

Assistant coaches Kieth Sullivan and Charles Cate have resigned their positions here to accept other positions.

Sullivan is accepting a position at Tuloso Midway High School in Corpus Christi where he will be assistant football coach and line coach, and head boys basketball coach.

Cate is going to Trivoli as head basketball coach in the class B school. He will teach math, also.

The Stamford American — The Texas Cowboy Reunion will include the Old Time Fiddlers Contest again this year, according to C. B. Rhea, emcee of the Texas Cowboy Reunion Association which sponsors the contest.

The contest will begin at 9:30 a.m. July 3 in the air conditioned Roundup Hall on the Rodeo grounds.

Rhea said the contest is limited to nonprofessional fiddlers who are at least 50 years old.

Early Certification Urged For Area Farm Producers

Producers have to certify their compliance under the 1971 set-aside farm programs. Deadline for certification in Jones County is August 1, 1971, according to A. D. Hill, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

In most cases, it will be to a producer's advantage to certify his program acres as early as possible, he said. However, he emphasized that early certification is optional, and that a producer may certify at any time through August 1, 1971.

A producer must complete his certification before he can receive any set-aside payment. To certify, a producer signs a statement at the County ASCS Office showing the acreage devoted to various crops under the 1971 farm programs. At the same time, he designates the amount and location of his set-aside acres.

"The Jones County ASCS Office is ready to give farmers all possible help in correctly certifying their acres," Mr. Hill said. "County Executive Director Robert B. Rowland and his staff will be glad to answer any questions or help with problems."

Producers who certify in time for data to be processed will get checks for their preliminary set-aside program payments as soon after July 1 as possible.

The ASC Committee Chairman pointed out that the preliminary feed grain and cotton payments could be complete, as additional payments depend on changes in market conditions. Such changes are not foreseen, he said.

First payment in the cotton program will be 15 cents a pound. In corn it is set at 32 cents per bushel, and the grain sorghum is 29 cents a bushel. Feed grain payments are made on established farm yield times one-half the feed grain base; those for cotton on the established yield times acres planted, but not in excess of the farm's allotment, Mr. Hill explained.

The preliminary wheat payment has not yet been announced but will be 75 percent of the estimated final value of domestic certificates. Producers receive photocopies of aerial photography of their farms to help them certify, ASC Committee Chairman Hill said. The photocopies show boundaries of farms and most up-to-date field acreage information. They are valuable for planning farm operations as well as for certification of program compliance.

The County ASCS office also provides measurement service, at cost, to help producers determine acreages at planting or at certification time.

"Most producers are familiar with our system of certification, followed by spot checks around the County to verify accuracy of these statements," Mr. Hill said. "Producers can certify acreages once they complete their planting operations if they do not plan to make any changes. The important thing is to certify accurately and as soon as practical for early payments. But they must remember no changes can be made after certification."

NEWS FROM . . .

Sylvester

By MRS. R. M. BARB

Such a lovely spring morning and everyone is busy, busy. We had a beautiful weekend for the Old Settlers Reunion and Cemetery working at the Newman Cemetery Saturday. Some 160 people from every part of the country came to work and visit. The person coming the farthest was from California. Others came from Wichita Falls, Merkel, Trent, Houston, Atlanta, Stephenville, Abilene, Sweetwater, Rotan, Roby, Sylvester and many other places. It was a success.

Mrs. Myrtle Woodson of Atlanta, Tx., spent Sunday night in the W. B. Brown home.

In the R. M. Babb home over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jackson of Wichita Falls.

We are sorry to learn that L. B. (Red) Howard is very ill and is in intensive care in West Texas Medical Center in Abilene.

Our sympathy to the family of Tom Early who passed away last week. The Earlys lived here for many years.

The John Faught family of Abilene spent the weekend in the Bill Kelley home. Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Williams and daughter of Irving spent the weekend with his mother, Gladys Williams. Also in the Williams' home Saturday was Eva Gean Wilson of Meadow. In the Guy Mauldin home this week are a grandson of Midland, a grandson of Clifton and a granddaughter of Roby.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lanning drove to Elgin Air Base in Florida to visit with Capt. and Mrs. Lee Lanning and granddaughter, Revellee. Returning with them was Mrs. Judy Lanning and children and they are visiting also in the W. E. Edwards home in Rotan, while Capt. Jimmy Lanning is spending some time in Bolivia.

Sylvester Baptist Church reports a very good Vacation Bible School. The last four nights Bro. Ed Jackson of Abilene spoke in a Rival which was good. Ten professions of faith and one membership by letter was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Gray's granddaughters from Springtown have been visiting with them for the past two weeks.

The Freddie Perales family of San Antonio are visiting in the Pete Perales home. We have just had a shower. 40 of an inch along with some small hail.
